

Window Fabricator and Installer
1st June 2008

Dear WFI , the latest recommendation from the Green Building Council proposes a fairer way of delivering Britain's much needed low energy housing. By taking away some of the cost and responsibility of delivering carbon neutral housing from the housebuilder and allowing the use of off-site solutions where appropriate, these recommendations provide a much more realistic and sensible solution.

Kevin Brennan, head of sustainability, VELUX